Troops Run Wild After Deaths of 3 Comrades

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Rampaging Congolese soldiers killed 44 civilians in bitter street fighting at Luluabourg, the United Nations reported today.

The troops ran wild through the town after three of their comrades had been killed and three wounded by a pro-Lumumbist mob.

Castro Sounds Out Neighbor For Solution

Efforts Reported To End Dispute Between Cuba-US

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro reportedly was sounding out Venezuela today to help solve Cuban-U.S. differences as a fifth nation in the Americas severed relations with his revolutionary government.

The Venezuelan foreign ministry said in Caracas Wednesday it had received a note from Havana asking for efforts toward a solution. Sources said the note amounted to a Cuban request for conciliation — but outside the Organization of American States.

At the same time El Salvador broke off relations with Cuba in protest against a vigorous campaign in Havana against the junta that rules the little Central American country.

The Salvadorean ambassador to Cuba was recalled in mid-January and never returned here. The Cuban ambassador to El Salvador has now been asked to leave there as soon as he can.

The United States, Guatemala, Peru and the Dominican Republic previously cut official relations with Cuba. Four other nations—Haiti, Nicaragua, Paraguay and Colombia—have pulled their ambassadors out of Cuba.

In seeking Venezuela as a conciliator for its rift with the United States, Cuba chose a nation that believes in working with OAS—not outside the organization.

President Romulo Betancourt helped draw up the Bogota charter that regulates inter-American relations. He feels the charter should be strengthened even further. One Betancourt goal is to exclude any Latin-American government that takes power without free elections.

Cuban leaders in education and labor took advantage of a protest meeting over a school bombing to whip up a frenzied anticlerical demonstration Wednesday night in Havana. Nine students were injured in the bombing, blamed on counterrevolutionaries.

Education Minister Armando Hart and others assailed Roman Catholic priests. The crowd, mostly schoolchildren, shouted for execution of priests.

Hart charged Catholic schools are centers of counterrevolution.

TV, Film Star John Payne Hit By Car, Critical

NEW YORK (AP) — Roosevelt Hospital carried actor John Payne's name on its critical list today. Payne, 48, was struck by a car Wednesday night and suffered multiple deep facial and scalp lacerations and two broken bones in the left leg.

Brought to the hospital from the accident at Madison Avenue and 61st and 62nd Sts., Payne's leg was set immediately.

The actor was struck by a car driven by Bernard Selz, 21, a research analyst. Payne was hurled into the air by the impact and thrown on the hood of the auto.

Selz said he didn't see Payne until it was too late. The driver was released after questioning.

Payne starred for more than two years on TV in "Restless Gun" until quitting last fall. An actor for more than 25 years, he appeared in at least 50 Hollywood movies before he stepped into his TV role.

Situations Confusing To Williams

Touring Emissary Sticks By Policy Line from Capital

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Newsman threw pointed questions at G. Mennen Williams today but President Kennedy's touring emissary in Africa grinned broadly and said:

"I have found many of the situations confusing and even self-contradictory."

Williams, assistant U. S. secretary of state for Africa, stuck by the policy line laid down in Washington in a news conference and again stressed the United Nations efforts to restore peace in the Congo.

The former governor of Michigan has drawn criticism from whites during his African tour for some of his outspoken remarks, especially a comment of "Africa for the Africans." President Kennedy backed him up Wednesday by pointing out that Williams had explained he meant Africans of all races. The slogan, however, is a rallying cry for black African nationalists.

TB Testing Will Begin Here Monday

Plans and schedules for TB testing in all schools of Pettis County are nearing completion. Request forms signed by parents are being received by teachers and administrators indicating high interest in this health protection program. TB germs are going to have little chance to remain hidden in Pettis County.

The doctors of the Bothwell Hospital staff are donating their time to give the tuberculin test to Pettis County children. Testings are scheduled for the following locations and dates:

Smith-Cotton, Monday and Tuesday, March 6-7, 9 a.m. to 3:17 p.m.; Whittier, Wednesday, March 8, 9-11; Washington, Jefferson and Sunnyside, Wednesday, March 8, 1-3:30; Hubbard, Thursday, March 9, 9-12; Broadway, Thursday, March 9, 1-3:30; Horace Mann, Friday, March 10, 9-12; Mark Twain, Friday, March 10, 1-3:30.

Air Force Charges Filed Against Todd

Court martial charges based on alleged failure to report two fires have been filed against a former base commander at nearby Whiteman Air Force Base.

Col. Walter F. Todd, 44, has been specifically charged with failing to follow Air Force regulations in reporting minor fires last summer to the 2nd Air Force, Barksdale Air Force Base, his higher headquarters.

The Base Information Office at WAFB today issued the following official statement:

"Charges have been filed against Col. Walter F. Todd for failure to report some minor fires at Whiteman Air Force Base. An investigation is being conducted. Pending the completion of the investigation, no further information is available."

A pre-trial examination of the charges has been scheduled for next Monday. Whether a court martial will be held will depend on the examiner's report.

The fires occurred in family living quarters and in an enlisted men's barracks July 14, Aug. 1 and 16. They were not made public at the time.

Colonel Todd, a 20-year Air Force veteran, was relieved as base commander last Nov. 14 and is now serving as special assistant to the 17th Air Division commander.

Top Soviet Editor Cuts British Visit

LONDON (AP) — Alexei Adjubei, editor of the Soviet government organ Izvestia, cut short a visit to Britain today and left for Moscow to join his father-in-law, Premier Khrushchev, on a trip to Siberia. Soviet Embassy officials did not disclose the purpose of the visit.

Bill Entered To Restore Ike's Rank

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration bill to restore former President Dwight D. Eisenhower to a five-star general's rank was introduced today.

The honor, which Eisenhower has said he wants, may involve some financial sacrifice for him. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services committee, introduced the measure. It would authorize President Kennedy to appoint Eisenhower to the active list of the regular Army, in the general of the Army rank Eisenhower gave up to become president.

Russell's prepared announcement said that since Eisenhower is entitled by law as a former president to draw a $25,000-a-year pension for life, the bill declares that he should not be entitled to the pay or allowances of a general of the Army.

Committee sources said the compensation of a five-star general is $20,543.36 a year, but that since nearly $8,000 of this is tax free, it is "more advantageous" than the taxable $25,000 presidential pension.

Kennedy told a news conference Eisenhower should have the honor because of his "outstanding military record and the great affection and regard that the people of this country have for him."

Lady Churchill Is Resting Comfortably

Young Mother Turns Cell Into Nursery

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP)—A young mother has turned a Clovis jail cell into a nursery.

Betty Raines, 26, refused to pay a fine of $10, plus $5 court costs, for driving with an expired license and was jailed Tuesday. She is nursing her 10-months-old son, Terry.

There have been numerous offers to pay the fine but Mrs. Raines has rejected them all. "I want my husband to get me out," she said.

"I don't expect any help and I don't want any in any shape or form."

Mrs. Raines claims the $5 court cost fee is unfair. The lower bunk in her 5x10-foot cell has been turned into a crib. The mattress is propped along the outside edge so the baby can't roll off.

Mrs. Raines sleeps on the top bunk. Shelves contain baby powder, piles of diapers, lotions and salves and safety pins.

Dennis Raines, an auto mechanic, said he doesn't have the money to get his wife out of jail, but he indicated to newsmen that he might be able to pay the fine today.

The couple's son, Guy, 5, has been accompanying his father to work and then to the jail to visit his mother.

The fine is being served out at the rate of $1 a day.

Girl, 10, Hides Following Minor Scrape at School

NEW YORK (AP) — Donna Marie Michel, 10, who has been missing since Wednesday, was found early today hiding in a laundry room of a Bronx apartment house less than 200 feet away from her residence. She apparently was in good health.

Thirty policemen had been looking for Donna, who vanished while on her way home from a parochial school, where she is in the fifth grade.

The girl was found by Peter Zambardino, of the Bronx, who was walking home with a neighbor, Lillian Bimbo, 42, who had spent the evening at the Zambardino home.

Donna had been believed worried over a minor scrape she had gotten into at school, and feared her parents might be angry with her.

Kennedy's Aid Bill Off to Good Start

Talks Appear Imminent

Algerian Rebels Accept Peace Bid

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — The Algerian rebels today accepted French President Charles de Gaulle's bid for peace talks to end the long and costly Algerian war. Direct negotiations appeared imminent.

The rebels insisted on their goal in the 6½-year war: Independence from France. They softened it somewhat by saying that Morocco, Tunisia and Algeria are planning to join in a loose federation retaining friendly ties with Paris.

The rebel announcement came in a joint communique issued after talks here between the Algerian nationalist leaders and their two neighbors and supporters, Tunisia and Morocco. Rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas conferred with King Hassan II of Morocco and President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia until just before dawn.

Bourguiba had come directly from Paris bearing a new offer for talks from De Gaulle.

French Information Officer Louis Terrenoire disclosed in Paris that De Gaulle told Bourguiba France is no longer insisting that the rebels lay down their arms before negotiations take place. A cease-fire would have robbed the Algerian nationalists of their main political weapon, which is the war itself.

The two sides see the negotiations differently. The rebels want to talk only about independence, De Gaulle, Terrenoire said, wants to discuss "the conditions for self-determination."

By this he meant the De Gaulle plan for letting Algeria decide its own political future through free elections.

Aimed at Discrimination

Expect First Civil Rights Order on Government Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's first executive order in the civil rights field is expected to be aimed at discriminatory hiring practices by the government and by federal contractors.

Congressional sources, although not professing to know just what form the order will take, said today there are a number of steps open to the President through executive action.

Kennedy said at his news conference Wednesday that in the next few days he hopes to issue an order that "will strengthen the employment opportunities, both in and out of government, for all Americans."

He gave no details, but some sources indicated they expected the President's order would call for tighter enforcement of existing bans on racial discrimination in employment practices.

Negroes have complained that within the federal government itself, despite policy statements to the contrary, they have equal job opportunities in very few agencies and even less equality with respect to promotions.

Kennedy's forthcoming order might direct all federal agencies to adhere strictly to a non-discriminatory policy both in hiring and promoting employees, and require establishment of compliance offices in each bureau.

In the field of government contracts, he might order inspectors to see that nondiscrimination clauses are complied with as well as other terms.

Some sources said the order might also call for extension of such clauses by prime contractors to subcontractors and the cancellation of contracts if discriminatory practices were found.

Kennedy may envision a more active role for the government contracts committee, headed by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and in the previous administration by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

The program would cover those who use up their basic insurance rights during the two-year period beginning last June 30. The payments during the two years are estimated to total $927 million; they would be made through advances to the states from the Treasury.

The Treasury would get back the money through a temporary increase in the unemployment compensation payroll tax to 3.5 per cent in 1962 and 1963. The permanent rate is 3.1 per cent.

Two city councilmen seeking re-election will be opposed in the March 21 primary as a result of filings by two candidates.

George (Bud) Bryant, 232 East Walnut, a Democrat, opposes Woodrow Garrison who earlier announced his bid for re-election in the Second Ward. Bryant's name, according to City Clerk Ralph Dedrick, was filed by Mack Kell, but Dedrick said Bryant is aware his name has been entered as a candidate.

The other candidate, Harry Burford, 116 South Quincy, also a Democrat, opposes Earl Paxton, who seeks to return to his council seat from the First Ward.

This puts five candidates for the council into the City Primary, March 21. Lawrence Koeller, 1017 South Merriam, a Democrat, was the first to file as a candidate in the Third Ward. All five are Democrats.

Deadline for filings for the City Primary is 5 p.m. Tuesday, March 7, the city clerk said.

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—Maj. Gen. Richard Collins, senior member of the United Nations Command Military Armistice Commission, denied today North Korean charges that naval ships had been sent into North Korean coastal waters.

Warrants charging the Dudleys with murder were dispatched to Brunswick County police by the commonwealth's attorney of Hanover County, Leslie Campbell. The couple first, however, must await disposition of the Brunswick County charges of neglect by County Court.

The Dudleys, married in 1934, are known to have had 10 children. Christine and two married daughters who live in Fayetteville, N. Y., are all who now survive.

One child, Edward, born to the couple in 1937, died when three months old. Another born in 1941, Kenneth Jr., died in New York in 1947. Dudley served a prison term for burying him illegally.

Investigator Lloyd said there apparently was no connection between the Dudley case and the discovery of the body of a young girl last July 31 in a shallow desert grave south of Prescott, Ariz.

This child—"Little Miss Nobody," they called her—was believed between 4½ and 8 years old.

Mrs. Dudley, a frightened-looking woman with black hair, is in jail in Lawrenceville. Her husband—wiry, dark-haired, bespectacled—is in the State Penitentiary in Richmond, where he was transferred recently after attempting suicide.

Trail of Tragedy for Family of Eight

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—In the summer of 1938 Kenneth Dudley, his wife, Irene, and six of their children left Syracuse, N.Y., in a battered sedan. They headed south to join a carnival.

Dudley—a sometime mechanic, junk dealer and odd-jobs worker—hoped to repair midway rides. His wife, when she could get the job, would sell tickets.

But the gypsy journey became for the Dudley youngsters a nightmare of hunger, horror and death.

Five of them died before the family's continent-spanning wanderings ended Feb. 10 with the parents' arrest for neglect leading to the death of the fifth child, Carol Ann, 7.

Wednesday the charge became more serious. Hanover County, Va., where police say Carol Ann died of malnutrition, exposure and neglect, issued warrants charging Dudley, 47, and his wife, 44, with murder.

Carol Ann's emaciated body, wrapped in an old blue blanket, was discovered Feb. 9 in woods just off U.S. 1 near Lawrenceville in southside Virginia. She died, according to police, Feb. 1 or 2 and was kept in the back seat of the Dudley's dilapidated car until her body was placed in the woods by her mother Feb. 6. But, said a Stat Police investigator, E. M. Lloyd, the poverty, hunger and death had started long before Carol Ann's demise—in fact only four months after the Dudleys left Syracuse with the six children.

Statements by Dudley and police investigation, Lloyd said, have showed this is what happened:

Near Baldwin, Fla., on Nov. 17, 1938, death claimed the first of the youngsters, Claude, then 3. His body was wrapped in a blanket and deposited in an abandoned mine pit Nov. 18 or 19 near Lakeland, Fla.

The Dudleys, now carrying their family around in an old panel truck for which they had swapped the sedan, were heading east from California in December 1939, when two other children died.

Norman, 10, died Dec. 23 in Phoenix, Ariz.; Charles, 8, two days later—Christmas Day—in the same city.

The Dudleys kept on driving east and south, and, police said, waited until about Jan. 1 to dispose of the boys' bodies.

Then they wrapped them in blankets, weighted the human cargo, and tossed the dead boys into Lake Pontchartrain in Louisiana.

Then there were three. Debbie, 3, was next-to-youngest of the children, and the next to go. She died at Gary, W. Va., May 21, 1960. Six days later, Dudley wrapped her body in a blanket and left it in the woods off a highway near Jenkins, Ky.

At Gary, authorities said they would launch an investigation into Debbie's death. The McDowell County prosecuting attorney, Harry S. Camper said a carnival played in a baseball park at Gary last May.

Then there were two. With Carol Ann's death last month, only one: Christine, 2½. Christine was with the Dudleys when they were arrested Feb. 10 at Fuquay Springs, N. C., a day after the discovery of Carol Ann's body. She seems in good health and is now in a foster home in Lawrenceville, under care of the Brunswick County Welfare Department.

Man, Wife Charged For Moving Goods

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — A New Orleans man and his wife, arrested by officers who seized furs and other articles valued at more than $20,000, were charged Wednesday with interstate transportation of stolen goods.

In custody are Charles Adams Smith, 54, and Mrs. Margaret Rose Smith, 37. They appeared before U. S. Commissioner Edward R. Delich, who set their preliminary hearings for March 9.

The Smiths also face a state charge of possessing stolen goods. Mrs. Smith was released on total bond of $5,500. Smith was returned to the Johnson County jail at Olathe.

They were stopped Tuesday as they drove away from a home maintained by Mrs. Smith in Overland Park, Kan., a Kansas City suburb.

Confiscated were six fur stoles, a mink coat, a movie camera, six watches and 16 $100 bills Smith had in his pockets. The federal warrant charges Smith transported the stolen furs and jewelry from New Orleans to Johnson County on Feb. 24.

The couple has three small children, 2, 4 and 6.

Chairman of the conference is Mrs. Sylvia Caruthers, executive secretary of the Florida Children's Commission.

Glamor Fades For Veteran Film Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "After 40 years, the glamor wears off." This was Mary Astor's frank view of yet another turn in her record movie career.

The actress started in films back in 1920. She has played everything from ingenues to character parts with an Academy Award in between ("The Great Lie"—1941). She has had more comebacks than Sugar Ray Robinson and may be due for another—which she doesn't want.

Miss Astor just finished "Return to Peyton Place." It was her most important role in several years, and several impartial sources predict she'll walk away with the movie.

To query her about this new development, I journeyed up the curving California coast to Trancas Beach, where she lives alone in a cliff-hanging house overlooking the sea. She looked less like an actress than a freckled, middle-aged authoress, which she admitted.

"I hate to leave this place," she said, gazing around the long, glassed-in living room and the desk where she writes.

"Even for a meaty role?" she was asked.

"Yes. After 40 years, you get tired of the routine of getting up at 5 in the morning and working a 12-hour day. Nowadays I view acting as a craft. It's a nice thing to have, and I work as much as I want—five or six TV shows a year and a movie every two years."

Miss Astor's discovery of writing came as the result of a personal crackup a few years ago. Bored with personal and career woes, she took the familiar escape of drink and despair. She got back on her feet with the aid of a Catholic priest, who urged her to write her life story as a form of therapy.

She converted the material into an autobiography, "My Story," which created something of a stir when it was published. She then tried her hand at fiction. A novel, "The Incredible Charlie Carew," was published last fall. She's now working on another one, "Baby-Kate."

Her writing labors were interrupted by "Return to Peyton Place."

"I was fifth choice for the part," she said. "That didn't bother me a bit. I didn't think much of the role when I read it the first time; I could see why the other girls turned it down. But I knew it had possibilities, and I think they were realized in the final script."

"The other girls" were Joan Crawford, Bette Davis, Margaret Leighton and Ilka Chase.

She talked more enthusiastically about her new novel, a saga of a small-town California family. Would she ever quit acting for the typewriter?

"Let's face it—you can't make a living from writing," she said. "I act to buy time to write."

"Would I ever stop acting? If I had a million dollars—you bet!"

Local Police Praised By Patrol Chief

The Sedalia Police Department has been commended by Col. Hugh H. Waggoner, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, for its participation in the Highway Patrol Academy at Rolla. In a letter to Chief Ralph Hamlin, Col. Waggoner said:

"In checking over the attendance at the Highway Patrol Academy in Rolla, it is noted that seven officers from your department have taken the training now being offered. It has been my pleasure to visit most of the officers who have attended the Academy and it was my observation that they not only enjoyed the school while there, but also seemed to feel they benefited greatly from the training."

The school was made possible through an appropriation granted by the State Legislature in 1959 and that all peace officers in the State of Missouri are entitled to this training at no expense to themselves or to the department they represent; the only expense being their travel to and from the school. Missouri, by inaugurating this program, recognized the need for greater training for law enforcement officers, thereby allocating tax money to put this program into effect.

Col. Waggoner concluded: "I certainly want to commend you for taking advantage of this program, as it is an indication of progress on your part. If we are to cope with our responsibilities of enforcing the laws of this state, we most certainly must take advantage of every opportunity to make our departments better equipped to do the job. I know you will agree with me that progress is attained largely through strong public support. By taking advantage of every opportunity for training, we can render a much better public service."

The Oregon Democrat told a Jefferson-Jackson day dinner Wednesday night: "On issue after issue, I was instructed by the State Department to abstain or to vote in support of Great Britain, Portugal, Spain, the Union of South Africa and France as they sought to hang on as long as possible to the last vestiges of colonialism."

Morse said this induced skepticism among delegates from the new nations of Asia and Africa regarding America's image of freedom.

Says Colonialism Support in Voting Damaged the Nation

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse, a delegate to the United Nations last fall, said policies pursued by the United States in the United Nations damaged the nation because they often supported colonialism.

The Oregon Democrat told a Jefferson-Jackson day dinner Wednesday night: "On issue after issue, I was instructed by the State Department to abstain or to vote in support of Great Britain, Portugal, Spain, the Union of South Africa and France as they sought to hang on as long as possible to the last vestiges of colonialism."

Two Missiles Successful In Test Shot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Polaris and Pershing, a pair of solid-fuel missiles assigned key roles in U. S. defense plans, have registered significant test flight successes.

The Army sent the Pershing winging 160 miles over the Atlantic early today in the first test of the missile's complete jam-proof inertial guidance system.

Several hours earlier, the Navy fired a "second generation" Polaris for the first time from a ship at sea. The stubby missile performed like clockwork in speeding 1,600 miles down the Atlantic range.

Both missiles are powered by solid propellant, a rubber-like mass which can be stored indefinitely. This gives them a high degree of mobility, which large liquid-fuel rockets like Atlas and Titan lack because of complex pumping systems and hard to handle propellant.

Te Polars was launched from the USS Observation Island, a 563-foot floating missile laboratory, about 10 miles offshore. The success was the fourth in five firings of the advanced Polaris, which is designed to hit targets deeper inland. It eventually will have a range of 1,725 miles, compared with the 1,380-mile reach of missiles now aboard submarines.

First undersea launchings of the improved Polaris are scheduled next month after the submarine Theodore Roosevelt arrives home.

Auto Accident Fails to Halt Four Fishermen

CASSVILLE (AP) — It takes more than an automobile accident to discourage a fisherman.

A car with four anglers hurrying to keep an appointment with the opening of the trout season at Roaring River State Park overturned Wednesday rounding a curve.

The car doors were wedged shut and the men had to be released by other fishermen. Then the car's motor caught fire and the men smothered it with dirt.

After checking themselves for injuries, and finding none, they grabbed their fishing gear and hiked the rest of the way to the river, leaving the car behind.

Art Awards to Knob Noster High Students

Four Knob Noster High School art students won awards in the 1961 Scholastic Art Awards competition for the district.

They were selected from 4,400 entries. The winning entries are on display this week at Emery, Bird, Thayer store in Kansas City.

A gold key award was won by Arthur James, Jr., on his sculpture, "Rhythm in Abstract." The gold keys are to be presented to the artists at 7:30 p. m. Friday in the Crown Room at Hallmark Cards, Inc.

Those who won merit awards were Jackie Taraba, Betty Bruce and Mary Sue Collett. Their entries were in watercolor, sculpture and collage, respectively.

Mrs. Opal Williams, art teacher, the four winning students and Mrs. Arthur James, Sr., attended the opening tea in Kansas City Monday. While in Kansas City the group visited the Kansas City Art Institute and School of Design, viewing the exhibit of paintings by Chester Kwiecinski and William Rakocy and the displays of student art work.

At Macy's they also saw an exhibition, "Living With Art," which included a picture, "The Corn Plow," by H. Gordon Miller, assistant professor of art, CMSC, and at Harzfeld's they viewed a mural painted by Thomas Hart Benton.

The wedding of Miss Betty Martin and Mr. Larry L. Looney took place at three o'clock in the afternoon Sunday, Feb. 5, at the Pentecostal Church of God, Sixth and Emmett. The Rev. C. H. Martin, father of the bride performed the impressive double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Harold Knight played a prelude of wedding music and accompanied Rev. Harold Knight, who sang, "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride given in marriage by her father wore a floor length gown of white lace over white taffeta styled with a fitted bodice, high neckline and long sleeves tapering to points. She carried a bouquet of white carnations on a white ribbon.

The maid of honor, Miss Alice Shoemaker, wore a thin blue dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Mr. Corbett Martin, Jr., brother of the bride, served as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Martin, 1702 East 16th. The three tier wedding cake which was decorated and topped with a miniature bride and groom was served with punch.

The bride and groom left immediately following the reception for the east coast.

To Fight Brush Fire Wars

Kennedy Is Dissatisfied With Nation's Readiness

(Editor's Note: Ben Price is a veteran Associated Press newsman who specializes in military affairs)

By BEN PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy obviously is dissatisfied with this nation's preparedness to fight brush fire wars. Why?

First, a look at recent reductions in U. S. military manpower:

In three years—from 1955 to 1958—the Eisenhower administration lopped four divisions off the Army.

In 1959, the Marine Corps was cut from 200,000 men to 175,000 men.

Despite these cutbacks in troop strength there was no corresponding reduction in U. S. military commitments around the world.

All this boils down to the fact that the United States, supposedly the mightiest nation on earth, has only about 15,000 ground troops immediately available to fight limited wars.

Thus President Kennedy is not exactly happy with the United States' ability to fight the so-called limited wars without drastic revision of all our military commitments.

Kennedy said at his news conference Wednesday that he had under consideration recommendations from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara for an increase in conventional war forces. Just what these recommendations entail is one of the Pentagon's closely guarded secrets.

The truth of the situation is that the United States now has only seven divisions available to fight in a limited war.

A limited war, by the way, is defined as a war in which the national existence of the United States is not at stake.

On paper the Army has 14 divisions, the Marine Corps 3 divisions.

Five of the Army divisions are tied down in Germany as the first line of defense against any aggression by Communist bloc nations in Europe.

There are two under-strength divisions in Korea, each containing only 75 per cent American soldiers.

Not many Americans realize that Koreans supply an additional 25 per cent of the troops in these divisions and these Koreans could not leave that country without approval of their own government.

For all practical purposes, the two partially American divisions in Korea are immobile.

That leaves seven Army divisions to be accounted for. There are three highly trained ready-to-go divisions in the United States known as the Strategic Army Corps. There is a fourth ready division in Hawaii.

So what about the Marine Corps? The Marines have ready for combat one division of 17,700 men, another of 16,600 men and a third of 12,500 men plus a brigade of 5,000 men.

The crux of the administration's worry, according to Pentagon sources, is that once these seven Army and Marine divisions—an Army division is 13,500 men—are committed, the United States has practically no backup forces.

To support a large scale limited war, in brief, would require a helter-skelter rearrangement of our overseas commitments or a chaotic buildup in which reservists long out of uniform would be dragged back to active duty as in the Korean War.

There is a third alternative. That would be to substitute nuclear weapons for manpower and this is something the administration apparently is reluctant even to consider.

All the cutbacks in armed force strength were part of what the Eisenhower administration called the "new look" in military affairs in which the greater reliance was placed on atomic weapons and the role of ground troops was subordinated. A clearer picture of what has happened is available if you consider what has happened since 1953 at the end of the Korean War.

At that time the Army had 1,533,000 men in uniform and 20 divisions. In 1955 the Army was down to 1,109,000 men, reorganized into 2 smaller divisions. In 1958 the Army had been cut to 899,000 and supposedly contained 15 divisions. Actually the 9th Division at Ft. Carson, Colo., while listed as an active division was really nonexistent. It had zero strength on Army rolls.

This myth was perpetuated until 1959 when the Army was down to 862,000 men and 14 divisions. The 9th Division finally was dropped.

At the end of the Korean War the Marine Corps had an active duty strength of 249,200 men. The Marines were cut to 200,000 by 1957 and in 1959 were reduced to their present strength of 175,000.

Army sources, while reluctant to discuss any of the present administration's plans, have long insisted that if the United States had to fight a small war this nation would be severely embarrassed. Hereofore, however, nobody apparently took their arguments too seriously.

The result now is the Kennedy reappraisal.

Nixon Assures Group He Is Not Quitting Politics

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon Wednesday night assured well wishers that although he has no plans to run for public office he is not retiring from politics.

"I intend to get my affairs in order," he told a welcome-home banquet of about 2,000 persons. He said he has three immediate goals: return to private life, earn a living and "save enough to send my two girls to college."

He added: "While I have no plans to run for public office, I assure you I am not retiring from public life."

The unsuccessful Republican presidential candidate said he feels it's his duty to speak out on public issues and added: "To the extent my making a living will permit, I will devote just as much time as I can to participating in the great battles of our time" and "to make sure the op-

'Aquanauts' Title Altered; Still Soggy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP)—CBS' "The Aquanauts," which when launched last September was just a doubtful dose of "Sea Hunt," has undergone a thorough renovation. Starting with Wednesday night's show it is called "Malibu Run," and now looks like a West Coast version of "Surfside Six." ABC action series set in Miami.

In the new format, the two muscular heroes spend most of their time either in skin-tight sports clothes or trunks on dry land. But, alas, "Malibu Run" remains a waterlogged and soggy item. Worse, in the first episode of the revised show, a primary rule of the suspense story was ignored: The villain was a madman. Although this isn't cricket, it eliminated the necessity of establishing a sensible motive for all the chases and fights.

Perry Como had an entertaining show Wednesday night—three particularly bright guest stars, Janet Blair, Mike Nichols and Elaine May. The first is a vivacious, talented performer. Mike and Elaine were a delight in a sketch satirizing apartment hunting in Manhattan.

One of the audience research outfits (Schwern) has made a new study of what people think of television—and found that 66 per cent of those asked consider it either "excellent" or "good." But where members of the audience were critical, most complained about too many westerns, sex and violence in the entertainment portions and griped about the quantity of commercials and expressed annoyance at having them break into the programs.

Looks as if either "Happy" or "One Happy Family" will soon depart from NBC's Friday night lineup. On March 17, a half-hour program with country-singer Eddy Arnold moves into an early evening spot. Arthur Godfrey finally has nailed a sponsor for a special program, and on May 19 will show some of the Far East

Says Dayal to Stay As Long As Needed

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A U. N. spokesman said Wednesday a report predicting India's Rajeshwar Dayal will be replaced as U. N. chief in the Congo was "speculation and without any foundation in fact." He added "Dayal will stay as long as he is needed."

film he made during a trip last year plus.

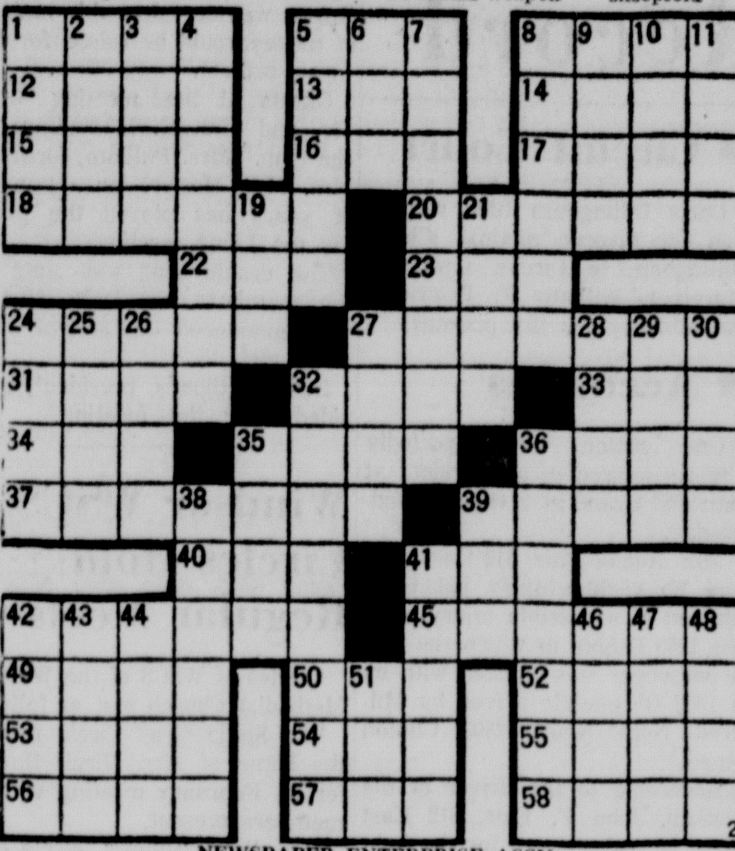

At a time when successful dramatists are deserting the medium and complaining that even if good original scripts were available, television has almost no place to use them, the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences is starting a "drama workshop to develop new talents."

A Teen-ager Shoots Both His Parents

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"I don't know how it could happen. This is my son. This is little Terry, my son, my son!"

Harry J. Wiggins, 42, stared at the ceiling in Queen of Angels Hospital Wednesday, where he is under treatment for bullet wounds in his left wrist and hip.

He was shot by his son, Terry, 15. Wiggins was at a loss to explain it all.

In another part of the hospital was Wiggins' wife, Florence, 36—Terry's stepmother. She was hit in the wrist, abdomen, hip, and twice in the back by her stepson's bullets.

Police say the teen-ager ambushed the two adults Tuesday night in the garage of their upper-middle-class home in suburban Van Nuys, wounding both with a fusillade from a .22-caliber revolver.

"This is like living a dream—a nightmare," the father said. "I've just got to wake up and find out it isn't a dream." He added: "We were a happy family."

Mrs. Wiggins sent her husband a message via a nurse.

"Tell him I'm all right," she said. "Tell him that Terry is still our son and we still love him. If he needs help, we must help him."

Wiggins received the message tearfully.

At Juvenile Hall, where Terry is held on charges of assault with intent to commit murder, the teen-ager offered his own explanation:

"They have been on my back since I got picked up for burglary in January. Sunday, mom was on me for not doing the window washing. Before that, it was dad, for not taking care of the pool we've got in the backyard."

"I decided to shoot them last week, but Monday they were real nice to me so I didn't. Tuesday, though, mom got on me about a dirty fork after I washed the dishes. So I went back to school and planned it out."

The father weighed his son's words Wednesday. Then he told a newsman: "I guess we were 'getting on him' as he said. But no more than you'd expect, and it was only because we love him and want him to turn out to be a good man."

"We kept him restricted to school and the house. My wife and I both work. We're supervisors for a phone company, and so we both got home a little after he did. Just recently, we'd started missing things around the house."

"Some money, one time, and other things. That gun he used was my .22. I suppose he got it from my dresser. I didn't even know it was gone."

"But for awhile, we've been keeping the house locked so he couldn't go through things when he got home. Maybe that was it. Maybe."

And Wiggins closed his eyes.

Lions Hear Talk On Boys' Club Formation Here

A talk on Sedalia's Boys' Club was given to the Lions Club at its noon day meeting Wednesday by John Brown. A motion picture of the operations of Boys' Clubs in other cities was shown to give the Lions an opportunity to seek the functions of such a program.

Brown in his talk discussed the local situation and remarked the committee in charge of the forming of the local Club agrees that there is a possibility of reaching at least 500 Sedalia youths who would be interested in participation.

He estimated a budget to get the program started here and for operation for the first year would amount to approximately $20,000. Brown was confident this amount of money could be raised for the local project.

Guests at the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pulliam, of the club. Mrs. Pulliam, formerly Mrs. Mae Mosier, for a number of years has played the piano for the Lions meetings.

The cradle song was sung by the members for Dale Hunter who announced the arrival of a baby girl.

Blast Rocks Ethyl Plant, Injures 31

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Three explosions in a chemical wash house rocked the big Ethyl Corp. plant today, injuring 31 workers.

An Ethyl spokesman, reached at the plant, said six men were sent to city hospitals, and 25 others were treated at the plant medical center. He said as far as he could determine there were no deaths.

About 3,000 workers are employed in the big chemical center. The first explosion destroyed the brick 2 1/2-story wash house, used to take impurities out of various chemicals.

Bricks rained over a wide area. J. D. Adams, an iron worker in the plant, said two or three men usually worked in the wash house.

"Everybody was told to get out," he said. "They were afraid of more explosions."

Adams said the men really started moving when the second explosion occurred. A third blast followed about five minutes later as workers ran the mile or so to safety.

A big, yellowish cloud spread over the area. A plant spokesman said what fumes there were drifted westward across the Mississippi River, away from the population area.

Only emergency traffic was allowed to go through the area which is the heart of the big petro-chemical plants. The plants extract various chemicals from petroleum.

Reading TB tests at testing centers scheduled second week.

Several rooms in the schools of Sedalia have already reached the 100 per cent goal for pupil participation in the TB testing service which starts Monday, March 6, at Smith-Cotton High School. Mrs. Bettye Murrell, RN-PS nurse reports teachers, parents and PTA members are working diligently to bring all rooms in every school, up to this 100 per cent participation. Mrs. George Chamberlain is community chairman for Sedalia.

District and community chairmen for other school districts of Pettis County have been named and are working with school administrators and teachers toward the 100 per cent participation.

If any child or school employee is not tested, he or she may have hidden TB germs that could later cause illness from the disease, officials said.

Pettis County is the first in Central Missouri to initiate a county wide TB testing program.

He said the Dudleys never stayed in one place long in their wanderings from one job to another "from Maine to Florida and from Florida to California and back."

Metallurgist Enters Era Of Creativity

ST. LOUIS (AP)—"Metal scientists and engineers have entered an era of unprecedented creativity," J. S. Smart, Jr., of New York told the Metallurgical Society today.

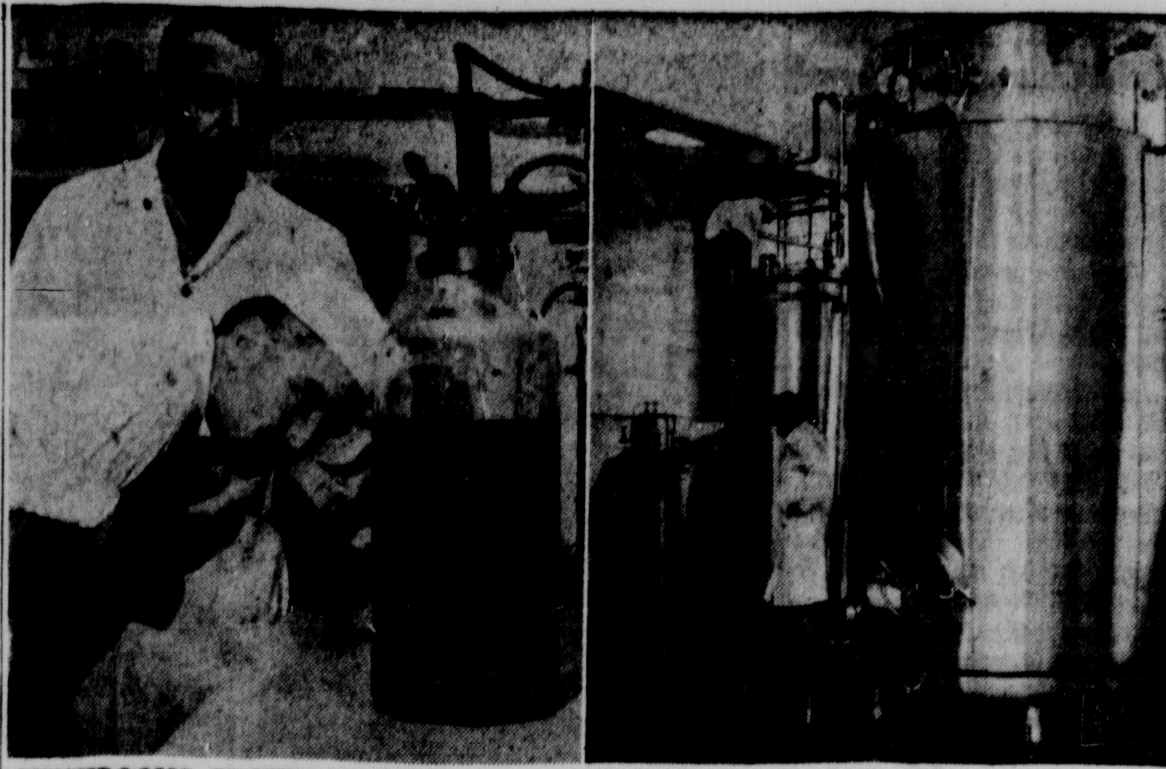

Smart, the Society's new president, in a speech prepared for its annual convention, cited developments using stationary components that transform heat directly into electrical energy; other devices also using unmoving parts that employ electrical energy to provide refrigeration.

One program still in its infancy, he said, employs solid state devices to simplify and make smaller electronic circuits.

"Metals and ceramics are being combined to provide cermets—new materials—that are particularly useful at high temperatures. Plastic coated steel will undoubtedly be followed by many other new combinations of metals and plastics, including such bizarre composites as a copper-plastic that would be an electrical insulator but a good conductor of heat."

Smart said the cross-fertilization of ideas and techniques stemming from research and development programs will have results that will be "little short of astonishing."

Dr. Antoine Marc Gaudin of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology,

MUSHROOMS GROWN IN MILK—Growing mushrooms inside tanks filled with skim milk and a few other things is a lifesaver for a former milk-processing plant in Lebanon, Mo. Noting that the U.S. annually imports about 900,000 pounds of dried mushrooms at $4 a pound for soups and sauces, the plant officials swung into the mushroom business. Two technicians, left, examine spores started in a bottle into which is fed sterile air, necessary for bacteria-free mushrooms that can be stored without spoiling. Right are the big stainless steel tanks to which the spores are transferred for the maturing process.

nology, in another speech prepared for the society, outlined the problem man will face when he sets up shop on the moon and wants to transform minerals there into useful products.

Importing water from the earth—at the cost of a small fortune per pound—would be among the essential steps, said Gaudin, an authority on extractive metallurgy.

"Metallurgical processing on the moon's surface, unless in a closed container, would have to be done in a vacuum some thousands of times better than the best vacuum available here," he said.

"The blessings of air and water, in the range of concentrations we know, have led to life," he said, "and that, in turn, has given us the fuels we waste with such zest."

turn some of our efforts in the direction of husbanding the use of this capital for our great grandchildren, and to put the intervening time to good use in developing alternative ways of getting energy."

Vigilantes Ride Along Border Of Missouri-Kansas

LIBERAL, Mo. (AP)—Vigilantes are riding again along the Kansas-Missouri line.

Back in Civil War days, they were looking for border raiders. Nowadays, the night riders are riding herd on crime.

A month ago, robberies, burglaries, vandalism and drag racing were getting out of hand in Liberal, a community of 600 north of Joplin.

Earnest Harvey, the town marshal, had his hands full. Seeing his plight, a group of public-minded citizens organized a night-time shotgun patrol to help him. Harvey, with the approval of Sheriff Cecil Blanchard, deputized them.

Every night, two men are detailed to ride together in a car also furnished by the volunteers, one driving, the other armed and ready to shoot. Just like riding shotgun on a stagecoach.

And it works, says Ed Yoke, organizer of the patrol. Crime has dropped off considerably, he said.

"No one comes in or leaves without us knowing about it."

Two Begin Today

Results of Tournaments Should Confuse the Issue

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two basketball tournaments whose winners figure to be among the leading contenders for the National Collegiate Championship begin today and the results could confuse the issue as much as what's been happening to the St. Bonaventure team lately.

St. Bonaventure, beaten only by Ohio State in its first 22 games this season and ranked second nationally, was the first to accept an at-large invitation to the NCAA tournament. The Bonnies figured they could beat the mighty Buckeyes if given a second chance. So

Jerry Lucas Cage Player Of the Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Jerry Lucas, of Ohio State's top-ranked and unbeaten Buckeyes, is college basketball's player of the year. His selection, announced today by The Associated Press, provided a double honor within a few hours for the 6-8 whiz, who is expected to lead the Buckeyes to their second straight national collegiate (NCAA) championship later this month.

Earlier, Lucas had been named to the 1961 collegiate All-America by The Associated Press along with Tom Stith of St. Bonaventure, Terry Dischinger of Purdue, Roger Kaiser of Georgia Tech and Chet Walker of Bradley. Lucas dominated the voting by 395 sportswriters and broadcasters from every section of the United States. He missed by only 13 points of getting the maximum 1,975 points based on five points for each first team vote. He received 392 first team votes for 1,960 points. This, plus two points for a second team vote, gave him a grand total of 1,962 points. Only two voters failed to mention him on their ballot.

Lucas, a junior and the only repeater from the 1960 All-America, was followed in the voting by Stith, a 6-5 senior whose play has made St. Bonaventure a national power. Stith polled 358 first team votes and an over-all total of 1,848.

Dischinger, a 6-7 junior, received 280 first team votes and 1,540 points. Kaiser, a senior and at 6-1 the smallest player on the first team, got 138 first team votes and 894 points. Walker, a 6-6 junior, polled 807 points, including 109 firsts.

Walt Bellamy of Indiana, Tony Jackson of St. Johns (N. Y.), Frank Burgess of Gonzaga, Billy McGill of Utah and Doug Moe of North Carolina were named to the second team. Art Heyman of Duke, John Larese of North Carolina, John Rudometkin of Southern California and John Havlicek and Larry Siegfried of Ohio State comprise the third team.

The 15 players on the first three teams will receive certificates from the Associated Press. In addition, Lucas will receive a special certificate as player of the year.

NFL Cards Sign Ernie

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League today signed their 13th draft choice, and Ernie McMillan of the University of Illinois. Coach Frank Ivy plans to install the 6-foot-6, 225-pound McMillan in an offensive tackle slot.

did a lot of impartial observers.

Then they ran into a couple of teams that were eager for bids to the National Invitation Tournament and pinned their hopes on one big victory. It was Niagara 87, St. Bonaventure 77 last Saturday. And Wednesday night an undermanned but fired up Duquesne team, playing without a substitution, conquered the Bonnies 79-74 in overtime. Now it's hard to figure who fits in where in the tournament picture.

The Atlantic Coast and Southern Conference Tournaments—starting today—could blur the scene a bit more. West Virginia, ranked eighth nationally in the Associated Press poll, is favored to win its seventh straight Southern title. Duke, No. 9, is seeded second but a slight favorite in the ACC event.

The windup of the Southwest Conference season tonight should produce another NCAA tournament entry. Texas Tech (10-3) can win the title by beating Texas. Otherwise the winner of the Texas A&M-Arkansas game will tie. Each has a 9-4 conference record.

Tournament-bound and tournament-hopeful teams dominated the rest of Wednesday night's major program.

Holy Cross, seeking the same NIT berth that Duquesne wants, rang up its eighth straight victory, downing Boston College 87-74.

Western Kentucky, second in the Ohio Valley Conference, beat NCAA-bound Louisville 96-80.

Elsewhere Notre Dame ended a rare losing season with a 61-54 victory over Creighton; Colgate downed Connecticut for the first time in four years 83-71; Carnegie Tech downed Penn State 70-57; Seton Hall overpowered Scranton 94-82; Lehigh beat Rutgers 70-66 and the Air Force beat Regis 67-64.

Says Sugar Couldn't KO Gene Fullmer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson couldn't knock out Gene Fullmer with his best punch, Fullmer's manager declared today.

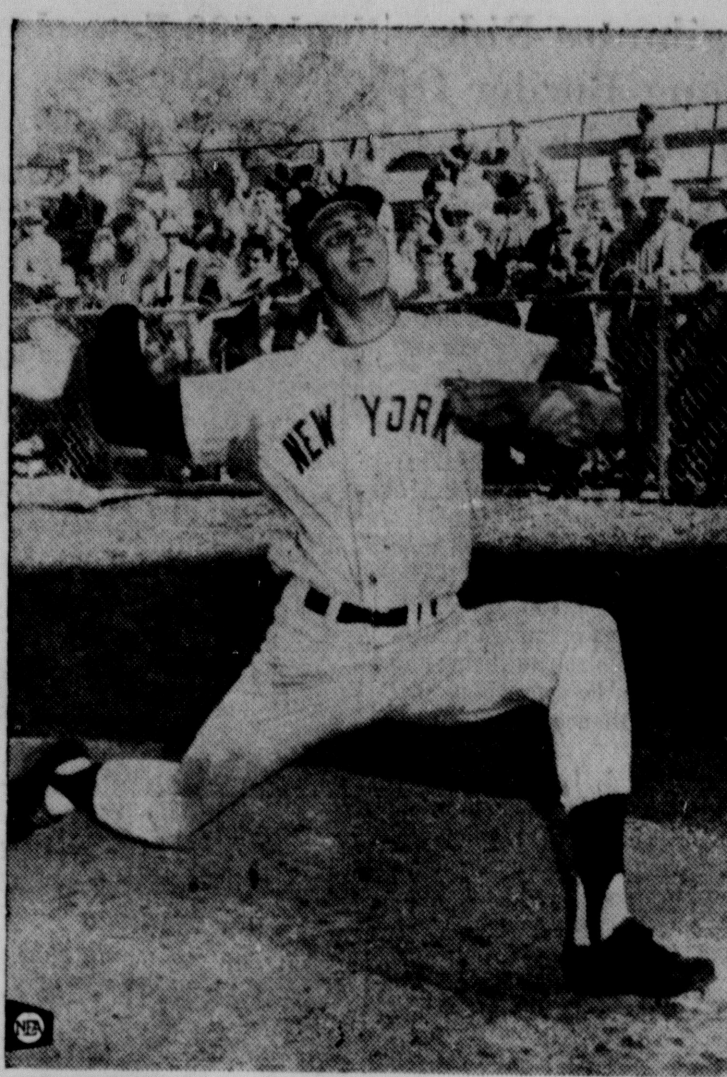

"It may be a little dangerous to say that," Marv Jensen admitted, "but Gene has lost respect for Robinson's punches." Jensen might have been thinking of a previous occasion, on which such a loss of respect resulted in a loss of consciousness for the bullish champion from Utah.

"Yeah, that's what happened when Ray knocked Gene out in Chicago in 1957," Jensen said. "But Gene feels that was a lucky punch, because he was moving in and supplied a lot of force himself."

Whether Jensen's theory stands up depends simply on whether Fullmer stays standing on Saturday night when he defends his NBA middleweight title against the 40-year-old challenger at Las Vegas Convention Center.

When Robinson and Fullmer fought to a 15-round draw in Los Angeles last December, Jensen said, Robinson nailed Gene with some magnificent punches in the fourth and eleventh rounds. "I think Robinson shot everything he had," Jensen said, "and Gene wasn't even dazed."

"This time he really wants to get in there and trade punches."

Visiting Red Track Team Treated Well

NEW YORK (AP)—The three-man Soviet track group that arrived here 17 days ago decided today it had been treated royally during its visit.

AAU chief Dan Ferris promptly breathed a long sigh of relief. It was the white-haired Ferris who had to make all the arrangements for high jumper Valery Brumel, broad jumper Igor Ter-Ovanesyan, miler Evgeny Monokov, plus a coach and an interpreter.

"We are very grateful for the fine way we have been received," said Brumel, who has beaten America's John Thomas in both their meetings. They go against each other again Friday in the Knights of Columbus meet in Madison Square Garden, then head for home Saturday.

"Yes," agreed Leonid Khomenkov, Ferris' Soviet counterpart. "I only hope we can treat the Americans as well when they come to Moscow this summer."

Neither Brumel nor Khomenkov speak English, so their remarks were made through an interpreter.

But Ter-Ovanesyan, always quick with a quip, does speak English.

"I've had so much chicken here," he grinned, "that you'd think I was trying to learn how to fly instead of broad jump."

This was strictly an AAU deal, not any part of the State Department's cultural exchange program.

"I think," said Ferris, "there was nothing they wanted to do that they didn't do. They had enough entertainment every day to keep them occupied."

"Most of the money came from the sponsors of the three meets in which they participated—The New York A.C., the National AAU and the Knights of Columbus. It was all handled through us."

FOOLPROOF GOLF—A pretty golfer tees up at the indoor Golf-o-Tron range, ready to drive into a simulated fairway. Impact at net will break an electric eye beam and send an electronic computer into action. The computer calculates distance and direction of shot. The amazing new device has only one drawback—the computer doesn't forget strokes.

Look Into Suggested Rule Change Proposal

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A suggestion that conference rules could use a rewriting is expected to be looked into by Big Eight faculty representatives this weekend.

They are meeting in Kansas City in connection with the annual Big Eight indoor track and field meet.

An interpretation question about the rules arose in October in the fuss over the eligibility of Bert Coan, Kansas football star.

Some conference quarters charge that the rules are not clearly written and are open to misunderstanding.

Another matter, that of limiting conference members in athletic scholarships, may also come up.

Way to Beat Boston Celtics Is With Yoyo

BOSTON (AP)—One way to beat the Boston Celtics—and there aren't many—involves the yoyo.

That was the formula St. Louis Hawks' Coach Paul Seymour used in Wednesday night's 110-97 triumph over the defending National Basketball Association champs.

But it didn't stop the Celtics from clinching their fifth straight Eastern Division crown. They backed into it when Syracuse whipped Philadelphia 149-128, making it mathematically impossible for the Warriors to catch up. Wilt Chamberlain got 56 points in the losing cause.

"I told the players before the game that I was going to have the yoyo out," Seymour said.

He explained that he meant the Hawks had to slow the game as much as possible, and they were required to pass at least eight times before taking a shot. If they violated the rule, out they come.

Los Angeles increased its second-place lead in the Western Division to 1½ games by blasting New York 144-107 in the first half of the Boston Garden doubleheader.

Oscar Robertson hit for 37 points and Arlen Bockhorn for 36 as Cincinnati dropped Detroit 137-122 and moved to within one half game of the Pistons in the fight for the Western Division playoff spot.

St. Louis In Big Bid For Gloves Title

CHICAGO (AP)—St. Louis is making the strongest bid for the Golden Gloves team championship qualifying five fighters for the semi-finals next Wednesday and topping the point total with 14.

St. Louis' winners in Wednesday night's quarterfinals were flyweight Caesar Forrest, bantamweight Bill Barber, featherweight Jim Anderson, lightweight Dan Cobb and light-heavy Charles Williams.

The 14 points—one for each bout won in the three nights of action—gave St. Louis an edge of two over Louisville.

Bunched at 11 were Cincinnati, Denver, Chicago, and Fort Worth, Green Bay, Wis., and Hollywood, Calif., each had 10.

Finals will be held at the stadium Wednesday, after which a squad will be selected to represent Chicago in the intercity bouts with New York here March 29.

All the strong favorites advanced Wednesday night, but without difficulty.

112 pounds—Caesar Forrest of St. Louis outpointed John Lowe of Cincinnati, Allen Lattimore of Kansas City outpointed Cesar Garcia of Chicago.

118 pounds—Bill Barber of St. Louis outpointed Eduard Vasquez of Detroit.

126 pounds—James Anderson of St. Louis outpointed Ken Lockhard of Minneapolis.

135 pounds—Dan Cobb of St. Louis outpointed Penny Bennett of Stretor, Ill.

175 pounds—Charles Williams of St. Louis stopped Juan Sanchez of Roswell, N.M. in 1:29.

Closest Score Race Should Be Decided Friday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The closest scoring race since official NCAA statistics have been kept should be decided Friday night when Gonzaga plays Idaho. Gonzaga's Frank Burgess must score 31 points to retain the all-most invisible lead he now holds over Tom Chilton of East Tennessee State in the race for major college individual honors.

Figures issued today by the NCAA Service Bureau and including games of Tuesday, Feb. 28, show Burgess with a 32.2 points per game average and Chilton, who has ended his season, with 32.12. An even 31 points Friday would bring Burgess down to 32.15.

There's an outside chance that All-America Tom Stith of St. Bonaventure could overhaul the two top men through an outstanding performance in the National Collegiate championship tournament. Stith has a 30.2 point average, so he'd have to hit about 40 points a game to reach the top. Tournament performances are included in the regular season statistics.

Brutal Slaying of Young Girl Touched Off Manhunt

Editors: Exactly one week ago Edith Kiecorius, 4, disappeared, touching off the greatest police hunt in New York City's history. Today, the soft-voiced derelict who admits killing her is behind bars. Henrietta Leith weaves together all the threads in a compelling account of the tragedy.

NEW YORK (AP) — It was Washington's Birthday. In Brooklyn, widowed Edith Kiecorius decided to spend the holiday with her brother, over the river in Manhattan. She was taking along her mother and her little girl, also named Edith but called "Googie."

(From New Jersey Tuesday night, police made a trip over another river to Manhattan, but it was no holiday outing. They were bringing back a 59-year-old handyman, run to earth on a New Jersey chicken farm after one of New York City's greatest man hunts. They said he was the man who raped little Edith and beat her to death against a wall — on Washington's Birthday.)

Little Edith's journey to Manhattan was uneventful. Her mother dressed her in a green dress and purple snowsuit. The gay, pretty 4-year-old was wearing tiny gold rings in her old-country-style pierced ears. She and her mother and grandmother Frances Duclot took the long subway ride. They arrived at the home of Uncle Manuel Duclot, on Eighth Avenue near 18th Street, in the deteriorating Chelsea neighborhood. (Just five days before, a slight, seedy but well-spoken man applied for the vacancy at a rooming house at 307 West 20th Street, less than three blocks from Uncle Manuel's home. The landlady was away, and her friend, a barmaid, showed him the room. It was small and plain, with just a bed, dresser and chair. The man, who said he was Fred Thompson paid the barmaid $8 for a week's rent.)

In the afternoon little Edith put on her purple snowsuit back and went out to play in front of Uncle Manuel's home while her mother and grandmother talked family talk inside. Uncle Manuel was outside, keeping an eye on her, but he needed a pack of cigarettes and walked around the corner.

(The smiling man came up to the little girl and spoke to her kindly: "I have a little girl like you, but she's sick at home. Would you like to come and visit her?" The friendly child walked off with the nice man.)

Googie wasn't in sight when Uncle Manuel came back a few minutes later. He looked all around but couldn't find her. Worried, he told the women inside, and everybody began looking. The longer they looked, the more worried they got.

Finally they told the police, who combed the neighborhood and questioned everyone who had been around when Googie disappeared. That night, after hours had gone by with no trace of her, police announced that a little girl was missing.

(About that time, a wild-eyed man was locking the door of a second-floor room a few blocks away. He had the only key that would unlock that door, for the duplicate he had given to the landlady wasn't a duplicate at all. At first, police thought someone might have taken the little girl home with them for a meal or a warm place to sleep, thinking she was lost or not properly cared for. But the printed and broadcast appeals for her return brought no results, and by Thursday police abandoned this idea.)

The search went on. Helicopters flew over for a close look at all the rooftops. The Hudson River was dragged. Cellar by cellar, backyard by backyard, room by room, police searched the neighborhood.

(Two miles away on the opposite side of Manhattan, there were many men with haunted eyes huddled in cheap Bowery rooms, trying to drive away their private ghosts with wine or beer. There was one who was more soddily drunk and whose eyes were more haunted than the others.)

By Friday there were more than 400 police in the hunt, with pictures of the little girl stuck in their caps, and soundtrucks were blaring all over a wide area on the West Side, describing the missing child.

Records were pored over for a clue—recent deaths of children about Googie's age. The mother made public appeals: "Only a mother can understand the way I feel."

Ever Meet A PHONY?

You Will Soon!..

TONY CURTIS as THE GREAT IMPOSTOR

Over the weekend the search went on without a letup. Police still knocked on neighborhood doors. Some of them were still locked tight, with silence behind them.

(On the Bowery, the men with the red-rimmed sad eyes were sleeping it off, or starting all over again. One of them began to try to sober up. He had to get sober enough to get out of town.)

4 Represent Chamber At Clinton Meet

Representatives of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, Sam Boyle, president; P. Cecil Owen, first vice-president; Maurice Hogan, Henry Salveter and Jack Faber, Secretary-manager attended a special meeting of the Osage-South Grand Basin Association Tuesday night at Clinton.

The meeting had been set up by Harry Mills, chairman of the legislative contact committee of the Upper Osage-South Grand Basin Association at the request of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, so that information could be gained on the status of the Kaysinger Dam.

The Chamber has been giving consideration in its work program to assist in aiding existing efforts to create a larger permanent pool in the Kaysinger Dam, it being felt that a higher permanent pool would offer the area considerably greater benefits in recreation, water and conservation and public water supply. The latter is of particular importance to Sedalia in view of the projected water needs for the city of Sedalia to the year 2000.

Information learned from the Basin Association representatives indicated only a minor conservation pool is presently planned for flood control in the Kaysinger Dam project. This pool is being established primarily for silting purposes. The silting process over the years would, of course, fill in the small conservation pool.

Sedalia representatives were informed of present efforts to secure a Congressional resolution authorizing the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to undertake studies of the possibility and necessity of raising the elevation of Kaysinger Dam, the possibility and necessity of upland water impoundment in the area and upland soil conservation program in the area as soon as possible so that the studies may be made available prior to actual authorization of construction of the dam.

It was pointed out that such studies could not be authorized or undertaken immediately as formal plans for construction of the dam have reached the point where it would be impossible to include the other consideration and principally raising the permanent pool.

The long range water needs of Missouri were discussed and the Basin Association representatives indicated without a permanent pool of some consequence Kaysinger Dam project would serve only as a flood control structure with no benefits accruing to the uplands area from which thousands of acres will be taken or to the Central Missouri area from the standpoint of water conservation and water supply.

The Sedalia group was invited to become a member of the Upper Osage-South Grand Basin Association and lend help to its effort to improve the value of Kaysinger Dam to the State of Missouri.

Attending the meeting in addition to the legislative contact chairman were: Herb Brown, Mahlon White, Floyd Pinkston, Jim Whitfield, Jerry Jerome and William Sannabeck, all of Clinton; Harvey Griffin and Mayor Harold Eldridge of Osceola; Calvin Holloway of Roscoe and Art Sindt, Warsaw. Sindt is the president of the Headwaters Association and a director of the Mo-Ark and Mississippi Valley Flood Control Association.

Sunday morning, police began making another round of neighborhood rooms. It seemed hopeless, but something had to be done to keep the search alive. They were on their way to a rooming house on 20th Street, where one locked door had bothered them. At that house, a roomer decided there was something wrong in a silent second-floor room and told the landlady. They were trying to open the door when the cops came. They crashed in. They found a little girl's bruised body on the bed, and they found a purple snowsuit.

At the police station only half a block away, Edith Kiecorius was talking to police for what seemed like the hundredth time, trying to think of something that would be a clue. They brought her mother to the police station and, in another room, told the grandmother the news. They couldn't stop her screaming, and nobody could keep Mrs. Kiecorius from hearing those screams. She knew before they told her.

(Fred Thompson had had many jobs since he walked away from his family 15 years ago, but in 1953 he worked as a nightclub doorman, so he had to have a police cabaret card, with a photograph and fingerprints. Later he gravitated toward the summer resorts in the Catskill Mountains, working at any old job until he would get too drunk to work and would get fired.)

Back on 20th Street, police were getting fingerprints from the pile of beer cans that had shared the room with little Edith's body for four days. A police artist was making a sketch of the man who had rented the room, from descriptions of those who had seen him.

Dozens of middle-aged men with no teeth, and the slightest resemblance to the descriptions of the roomer, were picked up and questioned.

On Monday the detectives had found the doorman's cabaret card and matched its fingerprints with those on the beer cans.

Now they had a photograph instead of an artist's conception, and began preparing a vast distribution.

(The man in the Bowery room had sobered up. On Monday he went to a bus terminal and caught a bus to Philadelphia. He went to an employment agency. They steered him to a man on a chicken farm in Manchester Township, N.J., who wanted a handyman.

(The chicken farmer hired John Andrews and told him to go to work Tuesday. Later the farmer, Max Pesko, saw the artist's sketch of the hunted man and thought it looked something like Andrews. When he read that Thompson, like Andrews had a British accent, he became more suspicious.

Tuesday Andrews reported for work. By then, Pesko had seen in another newspaper the cabaret card photograph of Thompson and he was sure. He called the state police.

In Brooklyn, Mrs. Kiecorius was preparing for a Mass of the Angels for little Edith at St. Rose Lima Roman Catholic church.

When the word of capture came from Toms River, N.J., it spread quickly. Within a couple of hours there were hundreds of angry people outside the police station. A relative of little Edith and another woman carried signs demanding the electric chair for Thompson. In the crowd was Uncle Manuel. "I feel better now," he said.

(In New Jersey someone else was telling police that Thompson should go to the electric chair—or at least to prison for life. That, said police, was the verdict of Fred Thompson, alias John Andrews, when he finally admitted what he had done to little Edith.)

(On the drive back to Manhattan—his eyes not so haunted now—he told a police inspector, thoughtfully: "It was the worst crime I have ever known. And I committed it."

Leslie Hale Is Optimist Meet Speaker

Leslie Hale was the speaker at the Breakfast Optimist Club Wednesday morning at the Pacific Cafe, telling in a humorous manner a bit of historic incidents in Sedalia and of plans being made for the preservation of things of historical value to the town.

Hale talked briefly on the Pettis County Historical Society stating that the organization is interested in getting new members, that plans may be carried forward to secure and preserve things of historical value.

Sedalia, said the speaker, whose grandfathers played a part in the early days of the town, has much historical lore.

Hale made a big contribution to Sedalia when he put into book form a large collection of pictures from the beginning of Sedalia up to about 1928. These books, which came out at the time of the Centennial, are still selling, and many people away from here are writing, wanting to buy copies.

He spoke of the things now in the museum cases in the court house, some which are loaned and some given by families. From now on, he pointed out, anything given to the museum becomes the property of the historical society, and no one can lay claim to it. It will be accepted with that understanding. When someone puts something in the museum it will be there forever.

"There are many things that Sedalia can do," said Hale, "and there is no reason why we cannot build a better and better town."

The speaker was introduced by Clinton Carson, program chairman.

Al Allgaier, president, presided over the meeting, with invocation by Jim Askren.

The group singing was led by Gerald Cecil with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

AGED FOR ROLE—Actress Ingrid Bergman, made up as a 70-year-old grandmother, reviews script for scene with director Dan Smith during taping of TV show.

Sedalia Soldier Is Given a Promotion

Lewis Smith, Sedalia, serving with the US Army in Germany, was recently promoted to the rank of Sp-5.

Also performing the duties of combat construction specialist, he arrived at his duty station in Germany in January, 1960. He had prior service overseas in Okinawa.

He is a graduate of Hubbard High School here.

Student Riot Film Sets Off Conflict

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rival defenders of American liberties are embroiled in a nationwide conflict of intensifying bitterness, roused by a pieced-together movie of the San Francisco City Hall student riot of last May 13.

The disturbances in the City Hall rotunda climaxed a protest demonstration by college students against a hearing by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Sixty-four students from San Francisco area campuses were arrested after police turned fire hoses on the demonstrators inside City Hall. Riot charges against 63 were dismissed. The one remaining accused goes to trial March 6.

The movie, "Operation Abolition," was put together from television newsreel clips subpoenaed by the committee.

The 45-minute film has been sold and shown in all the 50 states.

In the film, committee members declare the student demonstrators were "toying with treason" as the dupes of a Communist drive to destroy the committee and wreck the nation's security system.

Committee foes charge the film is a dishonest distortion. They call the movie the principal instrument of "vivid stimulus" spreading a grass roots revival of McCarthyism—without a personal leader like the late Red-hunting Sen. Joseph McCarthy.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said last summer that FBI investigation made it evident that students participating in the demonstration were incited and used as dupes by Communist subversives.

In a year-end report Hoover said in December that "the Communists hope to repeat the success which they achieved on the West Coast last May in spearheading mob demonstrations by college students and other young people against a committee of Congress."

The violent disagreement has reached into churches, schools and industry across the nation, and is continuing to spread.

Protests against the film have flared at universities and colleges across the country—at Rutgers, Harvard, Minnesota, Nebraska and on Indiana campuses.

Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike declared the movie's "distorted presentation" was encouraging a "growth of the radical right and its fellow travelers that has reached much greater proportions than in the days of McCarthy himself."

Dr. Fred C. Schwarz, Australian physician who heads the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade with headquarters at Long Beach, Calif., declared: "Almost everyone who views the film with an open mind is most profoundly aroused and disturbed by it. It suggests the vulnerability of the student to the clever Communist agitator."

The National Council of Churches, meeting in Syracuse, N. Y., last week, voiced misgivings about the fairness of the film. It prepared an advisory to churches not to show the film without presenting supplementary facts about it.

The council said the film "does not contribute to a realistic understanding of communism and its dangers to the United States."

The Rev. Dr. Curtis Nims, pastor of San Francisco's First Baptist Church, resigned as director of the Northern California-Nevada Council of Churches in February because the council's board cautioned member churches about showing "Operation Abolition."

Dr. Nims said he was present when the City Hall violence erupted and believes the film "presents a fair representation of the deplorable events."

More than 600 print copies of the film have been sold, at $100 a copy, reported George Johnson, president of Washington Video Productions, Inc. Johnson said Fulton Lewis III, committee staff member and son of radio broadcaster Fulton Lewis Jr., edited the film and prepared the narration.

Because of questions raised in Minnesota, the St. Paul area

Naval Pilot Eager To Be First Aloft

Editor's Note—Among the three astronauts now picked for final space flight training, none is more eager to be the first aloft than Alan Shepard. This is the last of three articles on the trio.

By HOWARD BENEDICT
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—"He is always reading technical manuals and the big policy type journals, the kind the admirals and generals say should be read. He is one of those lucky men—his work is his hobby." Louise Shepard once gave this nutshell assessment of her husband, band, astronaut Alan Bartlett Shepard Jr., 37, one of three men now training to become the first U. S. spacemen.

This complete dedication to his work is one reason the Navy commander is among the final three, one of whom will be lofted on a pioneer space journey perhaps as early as April.

Robert Gilruth, Project Mercury director who selected the trio from the seven original astronauts, said the choice was based on physical fitness and superior performance in training. The man who takes the initial flight will be picked in the same manner.

Shepard wants to be that man. He summed up his feelings this way:

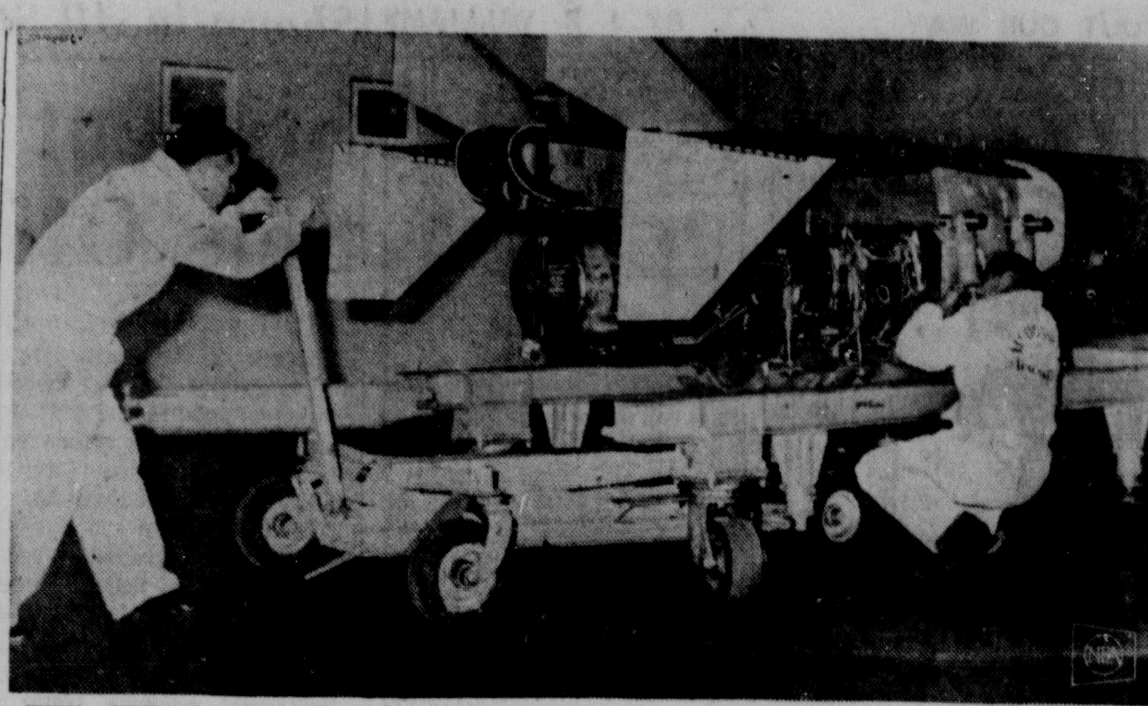

"There are lots of answers why I want to be the first man in space, but a short answer would be this: The flight obviously is a challenge and I feel that the more severe challenge will occur on the first flight and I signed up to accept this challenge."

The crew-cut Shepard, a native of East Derry, N. H., has accepted challenges all his life.

He was graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1944 and saw World War II action in the Pacific aboard the destroyer Cogswell. He entered flight training after the war and served aboard Mediterranean aircraft carriers, then became a test pilot.

He flew high-altitude research missions, helped develop the Navy's in-flight refueling system and contributed greatly to research on carrier landing techniques.

As a test pilot Shepard had sev-

THE GREAT IMPOSTER—Workmen in St. Louis assemble America's most unusual missile, the warheadless GAM-72 Quail. It is an air-launched decoy 13 feet long and is designed to help the B-52 bomber get deep into enemy territory undetected. Ingenious electronic equipment makes the Quail's radar blip identical to the B-52's.

eral narrow escapes, with en-ripping off at high speed. Because of his intense interest in acquiring knowledge, Shepard excels in the "school work" of the astronauts. This includes instruction in astronautics, particularly ballistics, trajectories, fuels, guidance and other aspects of missile operations, space environment, meteorology, astronomy, astrophysics and geography. In space flight, the pilots will be required to make scientific observations in these areas.

Off-duty, Shepard spends as much time as possible with his wife and two daughters, Laura, 13, and Juliana, 9.

Asked after his selection as one of the final three whether he's all set to ride the next Redstone-boosted space capsule, Shepard replied enthusiastically: "The answer is an overwhelming yes—a resounding yes."

Asked if the thought we were in a race with the Soviets to put the first man in space, Shepard replied, "We'd damn well like to beat the Soviets with a man in orbit, but definitely our objective in this program is not to beat the Russians."

"The specific objective of our program is to evaluate man's ability to survive, to react, and to observe in a space environment. This is the objective toward which we are directing our energies."

All the astronauts have a sense of humor, but Shepard is particularly noted for his ready wit.

Questioned on why he thought he was chosen as one of the final three, he responded: "Maybe I'm the link between Ham the space chimp and man."

When someone asked him how much notice he'd want if he is named for the actual flight, he grinned, "I just hope they tell me before sunrise on the day of the flight."

A source close to the astronauts said if Shepard is the man selected for the historic space shot, "He'll relieve the tension with his wisecracks."

"He'll probably even have a few good comments to make while he's hurtling through space. He's that kind of guy."

Cream butter, shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add extracts and boiling water. Sift flour, salt and baking powder together four times. Add four table-spoons flour to creamed mixture, then ½ cup cold water, beat well after each addition. Very carefully fold in beaten egg whites. Beat egg whites until fluffy. Add cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Gradually beat in one cup sugar until stiff and glossy. Put in a well greased nine inch pie pan. Bake one hour in a very slow oven (275 degrees) for the first 20 minutes, then 300 degrees for remaining time. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Gradually beat in ½ cup sugar. Add lemon juice and lemon rind. Cook over hot water until thick. Stir constantly. Whip cream and spread one-half of whipped cream over top of cooled meringue. Chill one hour in refrigerator. Add lemon custard and top with remaining whipped cream.

Needed: More Judges

Anyone in this country who has become entangled in the federal court system in recent years doesn't have to be told what an interminable process that involvement is.

Particularly in big city areas from coast to coast, the dockets of our U.S. courts (not to mention the state courts) are clogged with tens of thousands of untried, unheard cases. The backlog goes on piling up despite much streamlining of court procedures. Every year 60,000 or more new cases are dumped into the sluggish pipeline. In the most populous centers, it can take three to four years for a case to move from filing to final decision.

President Kennedy has now included among his "must" bills for 1961 a proposal to create 59 new federal judgeships—nine at the appeals level—to break this chronic logjam.

No one interested in justice, in the sound functioning of our judicial system, is likely to question the need for urgent action. Every month that passes aggravates the problem.

But is seems fair to say that should action now come, no great credit should reflect on the ruling Democrats in Congress. For in recent times their inaction has become as chronic as the delays in the courts. No new federal judgeships have been created since 1954, and virtually all of that time the Democrats have controlled Congress.

Judgeships are, of course rich political plums. The effect of inaction was to deny to the Eisenhower administration the opportunity to dispense these.

Very possible the Republicans might have done the same thing had they been in the saddle with a Democratic president. All the suffering citizen knows is that, when politics is played with the judicial system, he and the country are not the gainers.

Inadequate functioning of our courts destroys regard for them. Justice delayed is too often justice denied. People who cannot get action within a reasonable time may seek other means of redress.

In a free society justice must be had with some speed. A fair disposition of all conflicts and other matters relating to citizens' rights and properties lies at the heart of democratic liberties.

Lately this principle has suffered from serious neglect in many quarters. An effort, however belated, to correct the lack is indeed a "must" proposition.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Mining Methods Invade Tropics

(Editor's Note—With Latin America one of the most importantly precarious areas the USA has to worry about, Drew Pearson continues his reports from the key country of Venezuela, which if it should go Communist, might set the pace for the rest of Latin America.)

By DREW PEARSON

PUERTO ORDAZ, Venezuela — Floodlights like those in a baseball stadium stand out against the tropic night. They illuminate a land of crocodiles and pythons, anacondas and jaguars, 400 miles from the equator, a land in which the pythons and the crocodiles have now given way to cranes and bulldozers.

A few short years ago—seven to be exact—man made a living on the banks of the Orinoco hunting by night, raising beans and potatoes by day. Now they negotiate with U.S. Steel for a three-year contract with fringe benefits and portal-to-portal pay, a contract with 180 different clauses which gives them the equivalent of $30 a day.

Their forefathers who hunted jaguars and wild boar with bows and arrows never knew that they hunted over one of the world's richest deposits of iron, or that their sons would be eating an iron mountain away at the rate of 16,900,000 tons last year; 2,423,314 tons so far this year, eating it away as you eat frosting off a cake, from the top down, with 105 car trains of ore coasting down the mountain, the chief transportation problem being strong brakes.

Not a Man in Sight

They did not know that their sons would be driving locomotives for the U.S. Steel Corporation from the mountain right up to the Orinoco River's edge, where a smaller switch engine pushes a car, one at a time, toward a giant steel skeleton, waiting, ready to embrace it. As the car enters the skeleton, steel hands reach out like a spider pouncing on a fly, grab the car, turn it upside down, and pour the ore almost 100 feet into the maw of a crusher below.

Then the car is set back on the track, boosted up by another car which in turn is dumped. And it all takes place under the floodlights of that tropic night with not a single, solitary man in sight. One man is there. He sits, unseen, in a shack at the top of the steel skeleton, pushing buttons and pulling levers, one man unloading 90 tons of ore with the push of one lever alongside a river where his father hunted crocodiles.

Far below him the ore is crushed and moves out on a never-ending conveyor belt either to the Orinoco's edge. Again not a man in sight. Not a man stirring in the huge ship waiting patiently to receive the ore, not a man on the dock.

A few years ago I watched hundreds of half-naked men and women in Nagasaki, Japan, carry coal on their heads in baskets up a ship's side to dump it in the hold. I have seen coal loaded by basket all the way from Malta to the Virgin Islands—hundreds of men and women swarming up gangplanks. But now, not one man is to be seen in the tropic night, not one man on the ship, not one man on the dock. Only the rattle of a conveyor belt as it pours tons and tons of crushed ore into the hold of the patient ship. Only one man, sitting unseen, far up in the crane, pushing buttons, alongside a river where his father hunted crocodiles a few years ago.

He is a Venezuelan. Unlike his father, he had the benefit of smart labor lawyers who haggled for nine months with U.S. Steel to negotiate a contract giving him a salary, plus medical care, plus four weeks free vacation, plus other benefits. And engineers for U.S. Steel, in turn, try to figure out new labor-saving devices which will offset the high cost of that labor contract. And the Venezuelan government in turn devises new industries which will make use of the unemployed which modern machinery has put out of work.

So the competition between men and machines in the onetime jungle of the tropics goes on 400 miles from the equator. Tropics vs. North.

There was a theory once taught by J. Russell Smith and Ellsworth Huntington, the geography pioneers of America, that industry could not flourish in hot climates, that energy was most efficient in the north. The tropics, we were taught, were reserved for crocodiles and jaguars, for brown and black men with primitive weapons.

But today the Orinoco carries more iron ore than the Ohio to Pittsburgh, or the Great Lakes from Minnesota's Mesabi down to Cleveland and Youngstown. The map in the control room of Orinoco Mining, wholly owned subsidiary of U.S. Steel, shows 11 ships going up the river or down, carrying ore to Morrisville, Pa.; Mobile, Genoa, Liverpool, or Hamburg; while a few miles away is Bethlehem Steel; all turning this sluggish jungle river into a great artery of modern trade.

U.S. Steel's fleet includes one ship carrying dynamite to blast ore off the mountain, one buoy tender, one ship that takes soundings of the channel, and two dredges, working constantly, patrolling, dredging, dredging, patrolling, from the heart of the jungle to the mouth of the Atlantic, 180 miles away.

But just a few miles away, the Venezuelan government has built a new modern steel mill, with a series of dams and hydroelectric plants, one of which will be bigger than Grand Coulee and Bonneville combined. There, Reynolds Metals will build an aluminum plant; and operations will begin soon to produce seamless steel piping, all in a plan to create a modern Pittsburgh 400 miles from the equator where snow and ice cannot tie up production as they have in Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

If this can happen in South America, what can also happen in ore-rich tropical Africa? No wonder Khrushchev is rattling his atoms over the death of Lumumba and maneuvering to plant the hammer and the sickle in the Congo.

For with snow deep over the ore fields of Labrador and our northern cities struggling with ice and snow, the tropics may be the part of the world which turns the wheels of industry for your grandchildren and mine.

Start Looking Now

Now is the time to plan for that summer job if you are a high school senior or a college student according to a recent issue of U.S. News and World Report. Thousands of summer jobs for students will be available at pay ranging from $291 to $336 per month. In many cases, the work will include training that will lead to permanent careers.

The first requirement is to get busy now. Check with your college or high school placement officer on what jobs are available in your area. Visit personnel offices of any federal agency or establishment near by, if there are any, to see what summer jobs are available. Write to the Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C., for a free copy of announcement 205, "Opportunities for Student Trainees," or pay 15 cents for a copy of Pamphlet 45, "Summer Employment in Federal Agencies" from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C.

These jobs are scattered across the nation, and one might be available not far from home. The point is, if you want a summer job, start looking now.

Hospitals Important

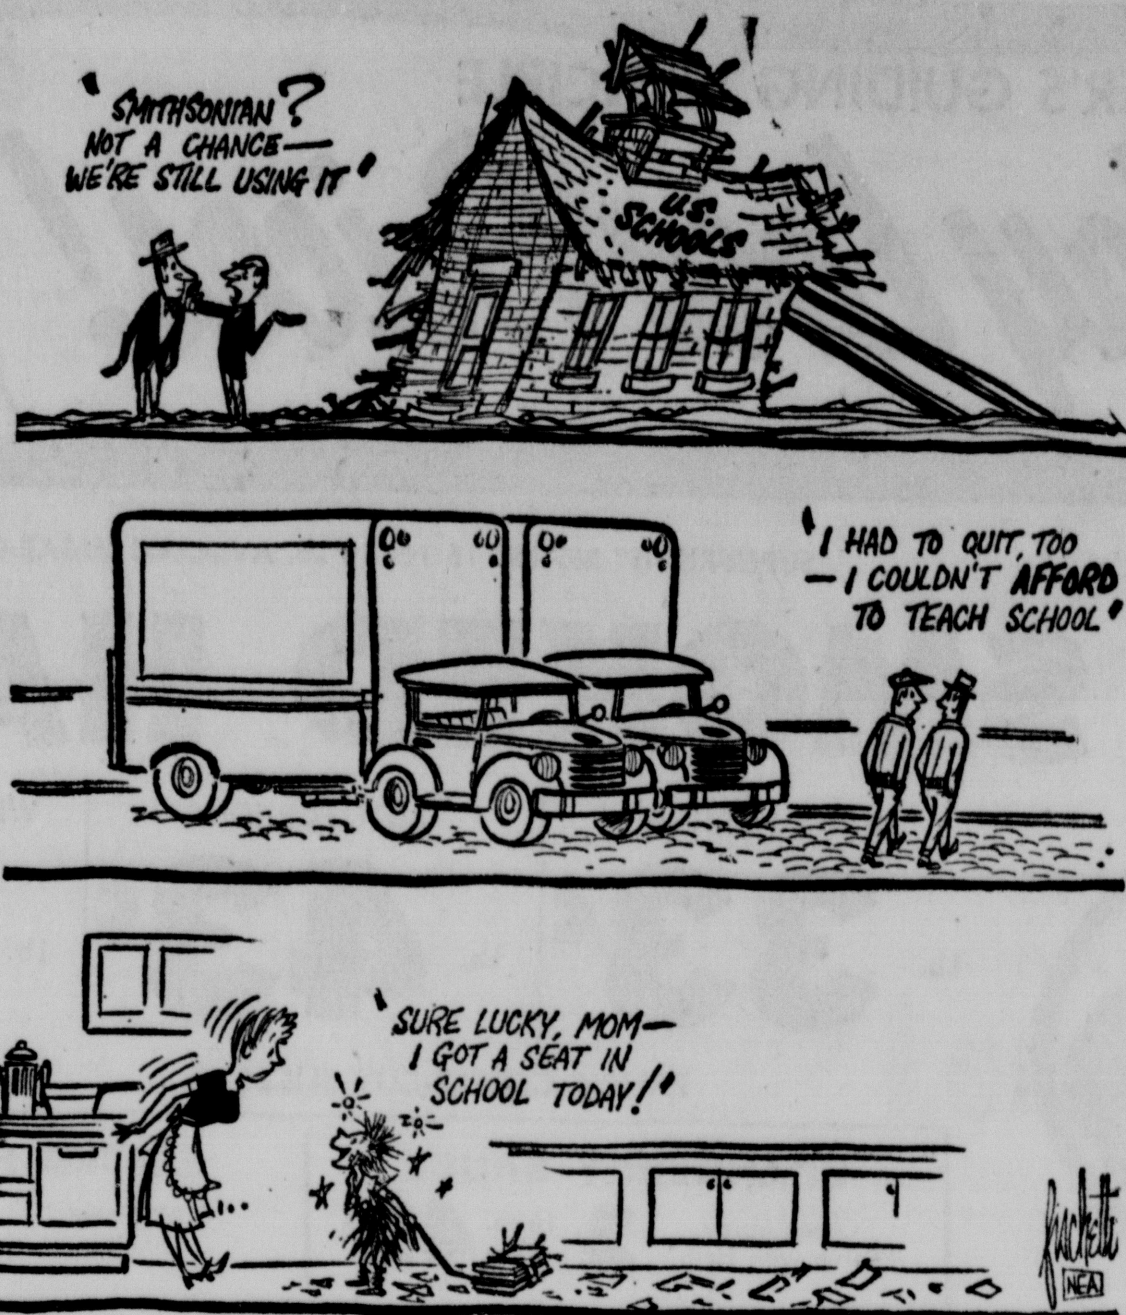

More than half of all deaths in the United States now occur in hospitals. This fact, says the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., reflects the growing use being made of hospital facilities for the diagnosis and treatment of serious illnesses.

Another interesting and complementary fact is reported by the Health Insurance Council: Over 130 million people in the U.S. carry hospitalization insurance. This is more than double the number only 12 years ago.

It's a Great Day, Etc.

Shamrock growers in Ireland are experiencing a little boom in export sales to America, and they give the credit to John F. Kennedy. Demand is reported to be up 30 per cent over last year as the time nears for the wearing of the green on St. Patrick's Day. President Kennedy's grandfather was an Irish immigrant 100 years ago.

The World Today

Reds Have Nothing Like the Peace Corps

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has nothing similar to the Peace Corps which President Kennedy established Wednesday. Trained young men and women who will help backward peoples develop by living and working with them.

For years the Russians have been sending technicians into backward countries. But American experts on the Soviets say the Russians in other lands are clanish and stay by themselves.

This country, too, sends technicians abroad. But the basic difference between them and the Peace Corps will be this:

Peace Corps members will get no salary—just subsistence wages. They will speak the language of the backward people to whom they are assigned. By example and working side by side with them, they will help them do what the technical advisers only suggest.

Kennedy gave examples of the specific programs to which Peace Corps members can contribute:

Teaching in primary and secondary schools, especially as part of national English language teaching programs; participating on the worldwide program of malaria eradication; instruction and operation of public health and sanitation projects; aiding in village development through school construction; helping local farmers produce better crops by assisting them in the use of modern implements and techniques.

Kennedy said: "The initial emphasis on these programs will be on teaching."

The President did two things in this field Wednesday. He established the Peace Corps by executive order on a temporary basis until Congress by law can create a permanent corps. He asked Congress to do this.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Fifth Circle of the Garden Club was organized at the home of Mrs. Fred Hoffman, 412 West Broadway, with fifteen ladies present. Officers elected were: Mrs. Carl Schowengerdt, chairman; Mrs. J. B. Poundstone, first vice-chairman; Mrs. A. R. Griffey, second vice-chairman; Mrs. G. B. Boyd, secretary; and Mrs. Colby D. Warren, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Olson and family, of Hebron, Neb., moved to the John Brandt farm, north 65, on March 1.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Mrs. Donald S. Lamm, 1321 South Osage avenue, who before her marriage resided near Hughesville, entertained her bridge club, all residents of that vicinity, at an afternoon party at her home. Among the guests were: Mesdames E. W. Jones, Harry Bouldin, James McAninch, George Janisch, Florence McClure, Lester McClure, Martin Benning and John McClure, Jr. All the guests were girlhood friends of the hostess, and the reunion was a most pleasant one.

By getting started now, he explained, he thought some of the young men and women could be sent to jobs overseas by late fall. Training, he suggested, can range from six weeks to six months.

He didn't limit the corps to just the young, although he said he thought it would be mostly made up of young people. The government, in addition to giving them subsistence wages, will take responsibility for their health.

How will the program work? In various ways, as Kennedy sees it:

Private organizations and institutions will carry out much of the program, with federal financial help. And the Peace Corps members will be made available to countries which need them in these ways:

Through private voluntary agencies carrying on international assistance programs; through overseas programs of colleges and universities; through assistance programs of international agencies; through assistance programs of the American government; through new programs which the Peace Corps itself directly administers.

The idea of a Peace Corps was suggested in 1960 by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., and Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis. Humphrey introduced legislation to establish the corps. And Kennedy endorsed the idea during the 1960 campaign.

The Mature Parent Hatred Implies Refusal Of a Demand for Love

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A young mother who had lost her husband to another woman sought psychoanalytic treatment. One day she said to her doctor:

"I swallowed Jim's lies for months. He'd phone to say he'd be held up by a late conference on some magazine layout — and I'd believe him. I'd feed the kids, get them to bed, then get ashamed of myself for feeling lonely when Jim had to work so hard. I even took up knitting to get my mind off myself. What a fool I was, letting him park me in that lovely, suburban, remodeled farmhouse of ours while he and that girl were getting ready to stab me in the back. I hate him. I hate him. . . ."

Said her doctor gently: "Don't be so quick to call your feeling a bad name."

Several weeks later her older child had a tantrum. Denied permission to turn on the TV until her little sister had fallen asleep, she tore free of her mother's restraining hand and flinging herself on the sofa began to pound it with fury. Her mother sat quietly down in a chair nearby. When her sons subsided, she translated for the child's understanding the illuminating words that had been spoken to her. She said:

"Don't be afraid of hating me, Millie. Though we can't wake up, sissy by turning on the TV yet, we can start those knitting lessons I promised you."

"Hatred," writes the noted British psychiatrist, Dr. Ian Suttie, "owes all its meaning to a demand for love."

But we are unable to feel the truth of this statement unless we recognized the demand for love in our own hatreds.

Calling our intense resentments dorsed the idea during the 1960 campaign.

Congress in 1960 authorized a study of the project. It was undertaken by the University of Colorado's research foundation. The professors consulted with hundreds of individuals in private organizations, government, and educational institutions. They sent out hundreds of questionnaires. Researchers studied youth corps possibilities in 10 countries in Asia, Africa and South America.

This week a preliminary report was issued—the final one comes in April—and recommended creation of the corps. And Wednesday Kennedy acted.

He believes service in the corps will last from two to three years. Going into the corps won't make a young man draft-proof when he returns home. And when they do come home, according to Kennedy's proposal, they will get some small sum in severance pay to help them live until they find a job.

Kennedy is thinking in terms of having perhaps 500 young men and women ready to go abroad by fall. If Congress makes the corps permanent, it would have some thousands of members.

How much would it cost? Kennedy didn't venture a guess. But the Colorado professors figured a 5,000-member peace corps might cost about $50 million a year.

by the bad name of "hate" is one of the ways we use to avoid exploring their meaning, and so do not discover that they are a frustrated demand for the hated person's attention, his appreciation.

The psychoanalyst's question led the young mother of this column to see that her hate of her husband wasn't a wicked, immoral feeling at all but sadness at his refusal of love. So she could recognize similar sadness in the "hate" of the little daughter who felt that her little sister's needs were favored over hers.

If ever there was a word in the world that requires our unfrightened investigation of its meaning, that word is "hate." It is our problem that its evil sound forbids investigation.

Democrat Pick-ups

By News Staff

The man went all out one evening trying to get attendance at a breakfast meeting the next morning. He called first one and then another. He did all right, too, because there was a good attendance the next morning, and practically everybody there said he had called them. But, the funny part was that he didn't get there himself.

"I have fixed that, though," he said. "It won't happen again. I will call everybody else — and then I'll be having my wife call me." — H. L.

Washington House Buyer

One Reason Why FHA Loans Have Fallen Off Badly

By Robert E. Hennessey
DP&R Special Service
WASHINGTON — The Federal Housing Administration is undergoing a "massive re-appraisal" from a certain man here in Washington who tried to obtain a loan.

He is a writer with a side income which allows him to write. Last fall he decided to buy a home, found one and agreed on the price: $30,000.

After failing to get the kind of loan he thought his case merited from a bank, he decided to obtain an FHA-insured loan.

But before the owner would agree to selling via FHA he made the prospective buyer agree to paying an additional $1,000. The seller would have to pay out almost this much as a loan fee to the lending agency since, by law, the buyer is not permitted to pay over one per cent in fee.

That settled, our man made application for an FHA appraisal and loan commitment on the house. After three weeks the FHA okayed a loan of $18,000, which our man thought awfully small, but still it was better than the bank would do.

At the end of the month, the lending agency reported that it was willing to make the loan if the FHA approved the buyer as a good risk. It would be another six weeks, however, before the FHA completed action on the buyer.

But in only four weeks FHA came through — they had turned down our man. FHA said the man's writing did not furnish him with "a steady income" and that his side income was "too speculative" for FHA to risk.

This unlucky would-be house-buyer had a cold million dollars invested in blue chip stocks which in the past decade had never failed to give him an income of at least $50,000 yearly.

In the end the man paid $30,000 cash and bought the house.

When an FHA report came out the other day saying FHA loan applications had fallen off badly in January (they have been "off" badly for a long time) we called the head office to find out why.

The fellow on the other end said he didn't know, that they were now trying to find out why people fail to use FHA more often.

Our man, and thousands of real estate brokers and more thousands of buyers and sellers, could tell them why.

The Doctor Says

Alternate Treatments Help Conserve Body's Vitality

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

I've been asked two important questions about drugs that are frequently administered.

"I am an asthmatic," writes an Arizona, "and I have been taking cortone tablets for 3½ years. My doctor died and I've just gone to a new doctor who ordered me to stop taking my tablets."

"According to him, it would be harmful for me to continue taking these tablets, which have helped me a lot, until I'd had shots of ACTH which he is now giving me. I spoke to a neighbor about the change and she says there's no difference between the tablets and the shots. Is this so?"

The answer is yes, and no. Let me explain what your new doctor is doing, quite correctly. The effects of both preparations are the same, as your neighbor maintained. But the manner of their action is different.

The cortone tablets produce their effects through a process of substitution. They do for you what your adrenal gland would do if it were functioning perfectly. They're like a wheel chair that might take you where you wanted to go if you weren't able to walk.

On the other hand the ACTH (Adreno-Cortico-Trophic Hormone) actually stimulates your very own gland to increase its output of the substance you need. Instead of taking the wheel chair where you want to go, it makes you walk there.

Now, if you use the wheel chair tablets too long, you weaken your gland to a point where it is unable to function at all. And if you apply too much stimulus to the gland with the ACTH current, you may cause it to collapse from sheer exhaustion.

That's why an experienced physician, like your new doctor, likes to alternate the two methods of accomplishing the same ends.

You ride a bit in the wheel chair, and then you walk a bit. So that you avoid both dangers: That of weakness, from disuse. And of exhaustion, from overwork.

"Is it a fact that tranquilizers often cause shaking palsy?" asks a troubled wife whose husband has been so afflicted.

I'm afraid so. Indeed, so many tranquilized patients are now experiencing the manifestations of shaking palsy (Parkinson's disease) that a prominent drug manufacturer is featuring a new drug whose principal effect is to control the symptoms of what is now called drug-induced Parkinsonism.

The symptoms include muscle weakness, mental listlessness, emotional flatness, speech and writing difficulties and, eventually, the pill-rolling tremor of the fingers that's so characteristic of the disturbance.

Since the director of the Delaware State Hospital estimates "frequency rates of from 50 to 90 per cent" for drug-induced manifestations of Parkinsonism, after three to six months of treatment, it would seem high time to discontinue the use of tranquilizers for minor disturbances such as mere restlessness, nervousness and emotional instability that might be better treated through the exercise of self-discipline.

Following the close of the four schools there will be a graduation program.

Extension Club Clothing Leaders Training

The Extension Club clothing leaders from all of the 28 clubs were present at their training meeting last week. The lesson for this year is "Children's Clothing." Each leader will present the lesson or lessons to their March club meeting.

During the month of March we will share the information from this lesson with the readers of this column.

Children and Their Clothing

Comfort and action clothing is important to children.

Whether your child is two or six years old or even older he is always "on the go." And never slowly or carefully either, but with big, broad, free wheeling action! His clothes should be designed so that he can take an active part in his surroundings.

Play clothes should leave him free to run, climb and jump. His school clothes should be designed to fit him into the group and to enable him to participate in the group activities. Of course, he needs suitable clothes for social functions.

Ignoring these influences may result in bashfulness, fear, tendency to be contrary, temper tantrums and in extreme cases may affect emotional balance. On the other hand when your child is appropriately dressed and entirely unconscious of his clothes he is more likely to show a willingness to learn, quick response to suggestions, a friendly attitude, and be accepted by the group in which he belongs.

A comfortable child is usually a happy child. Fretting and irritability are often caused by uncomfortable clothes.

Your little boy may look like a "picture" in his new overalls, but if the shoulder straps fall down when he tries to climb he may not be happy. The trim on your little girls dress may be "sweet" but if it scratches, it is not right for her.

The comfort of your child and his need to engage in activities necessary to his development are so important that it is worth your time to give some thought to selection of clothing for comfort and action.

The size and fit makes a difference. A good fit is just as important to a child as it is to a grownup. Clothes that are too tight restrict his activities. They may affect the emotional outlook of a young child. Many pre-school toileting accidents might be prevented if little boys' trousers were comfortably loose.

Your child needs clothing that is sized to fit him. It is usually best to buy according to your child's weight, height and chest measurement rather than his age. Many manufacturers are now charting these measurements on their labels.

Three size ranges are generally available in ready-made garments for children — infants, toddlers, children's. The sizes and measurements within these ranges are shown on the children's clothing size charts.

It is usually advisable to take your child to the store with you and have him try on the garment which is to be purchased. If this is not possible these charts should serve as a fairly reliable guide.

Styles and designs fit the needs and activities of your child.

Shoulder straps or suspenders that do not slip off the shoulders. There should be some device at the back to help keep them in place.

Blouse slips to wear with skirts and jumpers. They decrease the number of garments to be put on and taken off. They are neater and more comfortable, too, because your child does not have the problem of her blouse pulling out of the waistband or bunching up inside her jumper.

Blouses and shirts long enough to stay tucked in as your child plays.

Play clothes and boys' shirts with action tucks, pleats or gathers in the back to give plenty of ease across back and shoulders.

Sleeves that have roomy armholes that won't bind or pull out with strain. Consider raglan sleeve. Short sleeves without cuffs are most comfortable, but if cuffs are desired, they should be loose. Neckline low in front, collarless is more comfortable.

Crotch of pants, shorts, coveralls, slacks and trousers long enough not to bind when your child bends or sits. Curved seams in seat long enough to give ease and pleats or gathers in the back to give more room for stooping and bending.

Pants short enough to prevent tripping. Adjustable cuffs fastened at the seam so they will not fall down.

Legs of pants wide enough for easy knee bends.

Jackets, coats or snowsuits roomy enough to fit over clothing your child will be wearing with these garments.

Weight of garment supported by the shoulders rather than the neck.

Fabrics and construction features that provide for comfort and action are: Rib knit bands and cuffs that hold their shape and keep the garment in place on your child.

Cotton knits that give and stretch with body movements and absorb perspiration.

Elastic webbing at the waistline that holds the garment in to fit your child and does not bind or add bulk around the waist.

Smooth soft fabrics that do not irritate the skin. Children are sometimes allergic to certain fibers or finishes given to fabrics that make them fuzzy, stiff or prickly.

Cotton fabrics are probably the most comfortable for children's clothing. They are usually absorbent, soft and not apt to irritate children's skin. With care in selection you can find cottons that require a minimum of time and work to keep clean and wearable. Some of these are seersucker, terry cloth, corduroy, plisse crepe, cotton knits and cotton flannel.

The comfort of your child should be one of the first requirements of the fabric you select. This may be overlooked if too much emphasis is placed on "easy-care." Careful consideration should be given to the advantages and disadvantages of the various fabrics used in all the different garments your child wears before making "buying" decisions.

Smooth flat seams that aren't stiff or scratchy. Flat felled or double stitched seams are frequently used. These are very comfortable too as well as durable to take the pulls and tugs of childhood activity.
